

Slashdev Platform Terms

Overview

Slashdev will provide remote talent to our partners through our platform. Our talent works on a freelance basis for our partners on a full-time, part-time, or hourly basis. Talent work seamlessly like a regular member of our partner's team. Our partners establish their culture, working norms, and requirements with the talent and expect them to live up to this standard. Slashdev provides our exclusive, vetted network of senior engineers to our partners as well as continued support on any future recruitments. Our platform business model allows us to provide superior talent to our partners at the best value on the market. Unlike agencies that charge high margins on they talent we take thin margins to provide our partners the most value. Due to this, we are not liable for paying our talent, our partners are responsible for paying their invoices on time so that talent is compensated. By using our service we partners to abide by these terms unless seperately agreed.

Payment Terms

Slashdev has the right to bill for hours worked up to twice a month. Payment is agreed to be paid with a 15 day due date. After the first 7 days from the first billable workday are complete the client is no longer in the trial period. Objections to invoices must be stated within 14 days from the date the invoice was first sent. If payment is delayed 30 days or beyond from the day the invoice was sent, Slashdev has the right to stop development work until the invoice is resolved. After 15 days past the invoice due date, if the invoice is still unpaid, The Partner will be charged a fee equal to 1.5% of the invoice amount. This 1.5% fee will continue monthly for up to 12 months until the invoice is paid. Development talent working with slashdev.io is only paid when the client pays their invoice, this is why it is important that we are paid on time. Slashdev is not liable to pay our developers, the partner is responsible to pay their invoices on time so that talent is paid on time. Many developers are relying on this as their single source of income so it is important to us that this schedule is respected.

Talent Agreement

The Partner agrees not to hire any talent in Slashdev's network independently of Slashdev. This includes the talent presented to The Partner but also talent that is in our network. Essentially The Partner will not poach talent from our network without working alongside Slashdev.

IP Ownership

All billable work done by Slashdev and the talent belongs to The Partner. This could include but is not limited to code, documentation, designs, and copywriting.

Non-Disclosure Matching Period

Slashdev will keep all information shared between The Partner, Slashdev, and Development Talent during the matching period confidential. We will only share the information internally to find the correct talent for the job.

Non-Disclosure Ongoing Operations

Slashdev is not responsible for the information shared between The Partner and the Development Talent. In the event of IP being lost, stolen, or copied by the Development Talent, Slashdev is not responsible. We connect Development Talent to The Partner, The Partner is responsible for all NDAs and other agreements with The Development Talent and also bears the risk.

Trial Period

The Partner has 7 days from the first day of billable hours to cancel their agreement with the Development Talent without being liable to pay. After 7 days The Partner should discuss with Slashdev about special situations.

Grace Period

The Partner has a Grace Period of 4 weeks in which their notice to stop the engagement is 1 working day regardless of the contract they sign.

Notice Period

The notice period to end a contract with a talent outside of the trial period depends on the contract signed:

For all contracts (hourly, part-time & full-time) the first 4 weeks of billable work have a 1 working day notice.

For hourly contracts the notice period is 1 working day if nothing else has been agreed upon after the Grace Period.

For part-time or full-time contracts the notice period is 10 working days after the Grace Period.

Choice of Law

This contract, and additional agreements entered into between Slashdev and The Partner will be governed by the laws of the State of Florida, USA.
